

Results: North American QSO Party, CW — January 2024

During the second weekend of January 2024, much of North America was beset with harsh winter conditions. Brutally cold temperatures had set in across most of the northern-tier states and Canada, dropping far below zero, even into the negative double-digit range. That Saturday afternoon and evening, however, as cold as it was outside, inside warm shacks the participants of the January NAQP CW contest found the bands to be smoking hot. Inverse to the weather outside, some of those in the coldest parts of the country were able to generate impressive QSO rates on 10m. Just about everyone was able to reap the benefit of excellent propagation and quiet conditions, especially on 80 and 160m. As a result, every Single Operator category record fell, some by a very large margin. In all, more than 1100 logs were submitted, though not quite a record itself. Nearly 430,000 QSOs were submitted in logs. Remarkably, this total was 50% higher than the flare-disturbed August 2023 NAQP CW event.

Single Operator, Low Power

The winner of the Single Operator, Low Power category almost wasn't able to get on the air. Chris, KL9A, was offered the seat at N9RV, but after arriving at Pat's the morning of the contest, it was discovered that the -38 °F temperatures had frozen the antenna relay box. Then, the power went out. Chris and Pat were finally able to get a generator started and cobbled together some manual antenna switching, and Chris finally sat down at the radio 30 minutes after the contest had started. Ten hours of operating time later, Chris had logged more than 2300 contacts, and the Single Operator record had fallen. Second place went to Axel, KI6RRN, operating the formidable ND7K station in Arizona. Tree, N6TR, finished out the top three from his Oregon QTH. Tree joins KL9A, N9RV, and N2IC as the only single ops who have broken 2000 QSOs in the NAQP CW contest. From the central part of the country, KØEU and K5PI at K5TR finished 4th and 5th, respectively.

Single Operator, QRP

Steve, N2IC, decided to operate QRP this January and absolutely annihilated the record in this category with a score that would have placed 8th in the Low Power category. Steve racked up huge high-band totals with effective 2BSIQ operating, and found the low bands quiet enough to accumulate a very impressive multiplier total. Brian, N2MF, finished in second place with more than 600 QSOs from New York, a part of the country that did not see as spectacular high-band conditions as other regions. Brian just edged out AB3CX, who finished third with more multipliers, but fewer QSOs.

Single Operator, Low Power Assisted

Bud's, AA3B, perfect streak of wins since the inception of the Assisted category came to an end in January, though not without a fight. Todd, VE5MX, quickly built up a huge lead with large 10 and 15m totals, but Bud closed the gap and even jumped ahead for some time later in the contest as the sun set, with equally impressive low-band numbers. In the end, however, Todd was able to pull away with an impressive win, raising the bar on the Assisted record as well. Just behind Bud was Marko, N5ZO, in third place, followed by Gator, N5RZ, and John, VE3EJ, to round out the top five.

Single Operator, Assisted QRP

Returning to the QRP Assisted category was John, W2GD, who repeated his win from one year ago. The second place finisher comes from the opposite side of the continent, with VE7KW putting up a very respectable score. Third place went to Dale, WC7S, who very graciously hands out the rare WY multiplier in many contests throughout the year.

Multi-Two

This January, the father-son team of Stan, K5GO, and Kevin, ZF9DX/N5DX, put forth a dominant effort to break a million points and take the win. The perennial top finishing multi team of W2FU edged out the two-man team at N7DX, who has put up several highly competitive scores recently.

Closing Thoughts

Every year, the three NAQP contest managers, along with log-checking guru N6TR and website extraordinaire WA7BNM, conduct a review of the printed rules prior to submission for publication for the subsequent year. There was a majority consensus to allow self-spotting, starting with the January 2024 NAQP contests, but only for the Assisted and Multi-Two categories. While several contests now allow self-spotting for all categories, it is still prohibited to self-spot if you are entering one of the classic unassisted categories in the NAQP. Our logic for making this delineation is that an unassisted competitor not using spots shouldn't need to worry about maintaining a connection to generate them. There remains a segment of the contesting community who still feel that self-spotting should remain prohibited; however, overall feedback has been positive, especially from those who participate in the NAQP SSB without the benefit of skimmers. It will be interesting to see what sort of impact self-spotting has on final scores, if any, as the unassisted category winner historically has beaten the assisted one.

Additionally, there has been a change instituted in the log-checking process to bring the NAQPs more in line with the majority of other contests. Specifically, a penalty of one QSO will be deducted from a log for each QSO determined to be not-in-log or for incorrectly copied call signs. Previously, there was no risk for logging a QSO that may not have been completed. For example, you try to move someone to 10m and think you may hear them calling you. Was it a good QSO? Previously, the risk of logging such a "QSO" is just losing that contact. Now, you need to really make sure the QSO is good or you may receive an additional one-QSO deduction. Note that there is no penalty for exchange errors; you do not get credit for these busted exchanges; however, there is not an additional penalty assessed. As always, you can reach out to me via email for a copy of your log-checking report. These are usually available about a week after the log submission deadline.

Team NØAX's secret weapon, UØKK, who looks remarkably like KKØU, blew in from the east when he got word that Ward was going to set up a Slip-N-Slide for the operators on the frozen front lawn.
